Will Not Agree to a Settlement of the Strike.

His Men Do Says, Must Abide by Their Contracts Another Week Litigation Injunction.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 3.—The settlement of the coal strike on the basis of the proposition now under consideration at the Columbus conference will have no effect upon the future action of the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal company according to the statement of President DeArmit. Said he: "Even if the great bituminous coal strike is settled in every state and district involved and all the strikers return to work pending arbitration on a new price, the miners of the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal company will still have to fight it out with the company and return to work to carry out the contract legally signed and accepted by the workmen."

In the last great strike DeArmit's employes were induced to join the strikers and it was three months after the strike was settled before the miners of the New York and Cleveland company returned to work at the same price they were receiving when they quit. President DeArmit figures that the strike has so far cost the miners of the country $8,000,000. He based this statement upon the supposition that 100,000 men were out and that they averaged $10 per week. He men have forfeited $15,000 in wages to the company by breaking their contracts. The fight of the DeArmits against the miners has also been a very costly one. Already about $11,000 has been spent by the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal company for wages and board of deputy sheriffs.

WHERE DEATH LURKS.

George Adams' Terrible Story of the South American Gold Fields.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 3.—George W. Adams, of Cripple Creek, arrived in this city today from the gold fields of South America. Four years months ago Adams left this city to try his fortunes in South America. He went to Georgetown, in company with eight Americans, remaining three eleven months. Of the entire party of nine, he alone escaped death from the fatal fever. One by one he saw his companions die of the terrible disease; saw a hole scooped in the ground and their bodies, twisted from pain, covered with earth; was attacked twice himself with the malady and all but died, and finally, after seeing the last of the eight decay a way, he became horror stricken and fled from the country, a country from which, he says, not one out of seventy-five white men ever return alive.

MARSH FIRES

Again Ravaging the Farms in Laporte County.

Thousands of Tons of Hay Have Been Destroyed and Many Homes Are Threatened—Losses Are Heavy.

Laporte, Ind., Sept. 3.—Marsh fires have been sweeping sections of Union and Hanna townships, Laporte county, for the past week. Thousands of tons of hay have been destroyed, as well as other property and the loss to farmers along the Kankakee river is great.

On one farm in Union township a herd of eighty cattle was caught by the fire and thirty were killed. Many other farms have suffered in like manner.

Marsh hay has been of so little value that many farmers have not cut it, and with the dry season the rank growth has become like a bed of tinder.

When this begins burning it is impossible to subdue the flame for days, sometimes weeks, as the surface of the ground from three to six inches in depth catches fire and spreads in this manner over great areas of country.

Farmers have been working night and day in Hanna township digging trenches to prevent the spread of the fire. In Hervey township there has been heavy loss, but there the fire is now under control.

In Union many houses are still threatened with destruction. It is impossible to estimate the damage already done, but it will run well in to five figures.

Amos Sanderson's new house and barns near Mill Creek were caught in the onward rush of the flames Wednesday night and burned to the ground.

Many narrow escapes from death in the flames are reported, but so far no fatalities have been heard of.

Marsh fires are also raging in Kankakee township, in the neighborhood of Reed lake, and hundreds of residents are out fighting the flames there.

The heaviest losses will be from the destruction of hay, grain and fences, though the loss in stock will also be heavy.

A FAMILY FEUD.

Madison, Ind., Sept. 3.—Willis and Robert Steele, cousins living at Brushy Fork, about fourteen miles northeast of this city, became involved in a fight yesterday after noon over an old feud when Willis Steele drew a revolver and shot Robert in the abdomen, which caused death in two hours. Willis came to Madison in the evening and gave himself up, claiming self-defense.

Many Have Sixty-nine Cents for Missing a Ton of Coal—No Other Terms Will Be Accepted.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 3.—Colonel Reed's miners at McDonald, Pa., will not go back at the terms offered by him yesterday. The committee appointed to present his ultimatum for the men reported today that meetings were held last night and it was decided to accept no rate except sixty-nine cents, and not to work for that price unless all other mines do the same. The miners and their committee were unanimous in this, and say that all talk of going to work on another basis is useless.

Nothing had been received here up to noon from Columbus and both operators and miners were at sea. There seems to be great doubt of settlement on account of the stand taken by the miners' officials. The operators say they will not pay the sixty-nine cent rate and will go ahead with their arrangements to start the mines with non union men.

SILVER MEN MEET.

Two Bimetallic League Committees Confer.

The Rise in Wheat and Fall in Silver Is Encouraging Silver Men Present.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 3.—The meeting of the executive and advisory committees of the Indiana Bimetallic League at the Grand hotel yesterday did not bring together a great many representatives of the silver party. When the conference began at 1 o'clock Allen W. Clark, the chairman of the committee, counted between thirty and forty persons who were entitled to participate in the meeting. It was suggested by a commercial traveler, who is in sympathy with the movement, that perhaps the rise in wheat had induced many of the free silver farmers to stay at home and market some of their grain.

The active men in the league were called upon a good many times during the day to explain the oft-repeated declaration during the last campaign that silver and wheat always went up or down together. "Our position has been misrepresented," said Chairman Clark. "We are now charged with having said a good many things that we never did say. We do claim that with conditions as normal all commodities will keep in touch with silver. We selected wheat as an example because it is one of the staples. The supply and demand, of course, governs in all cases. With a famine ahead of us we could not be expected that wheat would stay down with silver."

Isaac Strauss, the free silver editor from Rockville, declared that within two years wheat would be selling at forty cents a bushel, and the other silver men about all nodded approval of the prediction. "The American farmer will put everything in wheat this fall," said Strauss, "and next year's crop ahead will probably be large; then you will see where wheat will go."

It seemed to be a new line of hope for the silver men who have in mind to be candidates for state office next year.

It was announced that the conference was not for any specific purpose. Chairman Clark said the meeting was called in order that the representatives from different states might have an opportunity to report the condition of affairs. "We shall probably arrange to launch out a good deal," said he. "Winter is coming on and we desire to pay more attention to the sending out of literature. We are now well organized; we have effective organizations in every county but three. Next spring the Ohio Valley Bimetallic league will meet in this city, and we desire to be prepared to make a good showing then. Samuel Ralston, of Lebanon, and George E. Downey, of Aurora, are the Indiana members of the executive committee of that league, and are anxious that this state shall appear to advantage at the meeting."

Chairman Clark says his position with reference to Towne has been misrepresented. "I am not a Populist," said he. "I believe it will be possible to unite the silver forces without the process of fusion. The result of the election in the Fourth congressional district bears out my position. In that district are more than 2,000 populists, and yet the populist ticket received only 750 votes; and half of those were cast by republicans. The result of the election shows that at least 75 per cent. of the populists in the district voted for Mr Griffith, the regular democratic nominee."

After having served the champions of silver so long Mr Clark has decided that he ought to be rewarded with an office next year, and so he announces that he is a candidate for the nomination for clerk of the supreme court.

The members of the advisory committee of the league were nearly all here. They are John W. Kern, Hugh Dougherty, Samuel Ralston, James McCabe and O. J. Lofland. Ex-Governor Matthews spent several hours about the hotel, but he left for home before the conference began.

OFF A BARN.

Young Son of Christian Ridenour Seriously Hurt.

Marshall Stillwell in a Bicycle Collision—Mrs. Mollie's Wild Fractured—Accident Chapter.

Last Tuesday night Marshall Stillwell of this city, was pretty seriously bruised and shaken up in an accident near Scottish Brook's home, west of New Haven. He was returning from Payne in company with a young man by the name of Crawford. They were riding wheels but had no lamps and at the above point met a couple of wheelmen from Fort Wayne. One of them ran into Still well and he was thrown to the ground. It is supposed that he struck on his head, as he has a bad scalp wound and is much bruised and cut about the face. Drs Nall and Beadle of New Haven, were summoned and hastened to the scene of the accident. Stillwell was unconscious for some time and his cuts and bruises bled copiously. As soon as he recovered he was taken to the Manmon hotel at New Haven. It required three stitches to close the cuts in his face. He is a painter by trade and formerly lived at Payne.

A little daughter of William Dowgera, of the south side, broke her jaw bone by falling from a fence yesterday.

The young son of Christian Ridenour, of the south side, while playing on a barn last evening, fell and fractured his leg. Dr. A. J. Boswell was summoned to reduce the fracture.

Mrs. McGal, mother of Mrs. E. F. Yarnelle, and sister of Mrs. A. R. Walker, fell last night as she was about to enter a carriage, and received a fracture of the left wrist. She was added to a seat in the vehicle, and driven to Dr. Bud Von Schrieger's office. It was found that three of the bones were fractured. The injury is attended with great pain and nervous shock.

Of 146 Deaths Only Six Are Typhoid Fever—Two of These Did Not Use the City Water.

The reports that the waterworks trustees had secured a canal water to supplement the regular supply from wells, although unauthentic, have had the result of creating a good deal of anxiety and alarm. This has caused the health department to compile a few statistics to reassure the people that the water supplied by the waterworks is pure and wholesome. Besides, there are analyses, Rent, grocery and clothing bills are awaiting settlement

Later the houses on Pape avenue were entered, but nothing of value was obtained. The only property missing from the Bowman premises is a number of chickens, and it is supposed the thieves became alarmed before completing their job.

The four prisoners suspected of having done the jobs were taken before the mayor this morning. No evidence of a convincing nature could be found against them, and Mrs. Young could not identify any one of them as the man whom she saw in her house. The quartet was sent over for fifteen days for vagrancy.

A Number of Farmers Victims—Tale of Reorganizing Republicans.

A few nights ago a thief entered the pasture field of Henry Fricke at Clear Creek and stole a fine gray horse. The thief had stolen a horse but the animal had gone home and appeared at the pasture of Fricke's horses. That night a stranger appeared at the house and said he wanted water, which was given him and he left. His actions were rather suspicious, but nothing was missed until morning. The same night a buggy and set of harness, belonging to Jake Boettcher, were stolen from George Ensminger's farm and a set of harness was also stolen from Barney Kamp, north of New Haven. The opinion is generally expressed that the thefts were all committed by the same parties. Several days ago Eugene Bell, of New Haven, had a buggy stolen and quite a number of others have reported losses.

Upper Scioto at Edward Beech, of the City Has Disappeared—Others Are Insured.

Edward J. Keech, a member of the city fire department, has suddenly left the city under circumstances which cast some odium upon his name, even though his intentions prove to be honest. He did not take the trouble to resign. Last Wednesday morning Keech drew his monthly salary and then went around to engine house No. 3, his headquarters, and told his boss and the lodge of the department in his locker. On Wednesday evening he took Pennsylvania train No. 8 for the east, presumably Altoona, Pa., where it is known that he has relatives. Mr. Keech's daughter, who has been his housekeeper, accompanied him.

Chief Hilbrecht, when notified of his absence, made an investigation, finding that Keech vacated his house at 58 Hendricks street several days ago, and it is supposed the goods were shipped east. Mr. Hilbrecht also learned that numerous creditors mourned the departure of the fireman. These creditors were not notified of his intention to leave and there are anxious. Rent, grocery and clothing bills are awaiting settlement

The state that can't uncover a few gold mines is not looked for on the map nowadays.

If Mr. Hill is a democrat, Mr. Tillman must be the democrat. At any rate Mr. Tillman has claimed the right to fire Mr. Hill out of the party.

A wild scares of unusual evidence prevailed in Indianapolis Wednesday afternoon and a large part of the population was frightened. It is the wicked who dwell in fear.

As a practical method of teaching the young idea how to shoot, the public schools of one Illinois community are under police protection, with some prospect that the militia will be needed.

With the Citizens' union and the republican machine at odds about a mayoralty candidate for Greater New York, there is more reason to think the cat may come back. Tammany watches and waits.

If discoveries of gold continue long at the rate that has marked the last year or two mono-metallism will be obliged to fall back on silver or copper, or any other old thing for a monetary standard that is not a discoverable.

Writer and his Castilian underlings are now shaping the Cuban peace scrap, which is the first item of real work the butcher has done since he left home.

The Chicago girl who was carried to her wedding in a sedan chair would not have found so much an easily mate in a wheelbarrow, but she could have journeyed just as comfortably and a deal more rapidly.

While Emperor William is having the undisturbed privilege to proclaim the divine right of kings, President Faure in Paris, boiling dynamite bombs. These things nicely illustrate the difference between some monarchies and some republics.

And while you talk don't forget that there's no money in talking unless you do it where those who listen have to find its business with a doorkeeper. Which is to say that the way to make the country prosper is not put in all your time telling what the Dingley law will do or won't do, but to try to find a job and go to work.

The young man whose ambition culminates in a cigarette and a shirt front with four colors, whose reliance is a mother not above washing and plain sewing for hire, and whose pride is the fact he never works, is not in all cases to take some to the police. And that is the pity of it. There should be some means of railroading him to a stone pile.

The city of Peru has inaugurated a fight for reduction of the rates charged for natural gas by the big Deutsch syndicate. The franchise of the syndicate expires in Peru November 18 and a reduction of rates will be asked for. This is regarded as the beginning of general demand on the syndicate in all Indiana cities where its franchises will soon expire.

More complaint is heard about the dreadful condition of new Iron avenue since the street car company were granted permission to lay their double tracks. It is difficult to drive on that thoroughfare, owing to the extremely narrow roadway left by the tracks for vehicles. Many farmers complain that they are compelled to drive so close to the cars that their horses cannot be prevented from taking fright.

At the Universalist state convention at Indianapolis this week a number of the members of the church are making an effort to change the creed. It seems that the Unitarian part of the church are trying to have the Universalists come with them and make one church. The matter will be finally settled by a national convention in Chicago next month. Many of the Indiana Universalists are loud in their protests against any attempt to force them to adopt the Unitarian belief.

Those who have predicted that William J. Bryan would soon fall from democratic leadership read their mistake in his every appearance before the people and in every mention of his name in democratic bodies. His hold on the democratic masses has strengthened and continues to grow. He is the ideal leader, manly, fearless, honest and capable. Democrats in all parts of the country regard him as their rightful commander and they will not look elsewhere for a leader. All discussions of his influence having waned sprang from personally the same sources as when he was a candidate.

With the opening of the schools the full practical scientific prospectuses will have a place and will be taught in all grades in the public schools of Indiana. The subject is to be presented to children in its simplest aspects in the first year grades. Thence the pupil is led progressively through the more intricate phases of the subject up to consideration of the effect of alcohol on the mind. This is the sort of temperance work that gives hostage for the future. Its results should be broad, far reaching and effective. Temperance as a scientific educational process ought to and will accomplish that which the impassioned, inflexible will not only be exerted on the growing generation of school children, but will be felt at once in the homes of the children. The subject is striking and novel and reveals knowledge of evil and folly of which too many fathers are ignorant. The school children will talk ceaselessly at home of what they have learned in school about alcohol and its effects, and many a man who drinks will be taught by his unconscious children of the folly and wrong of alcoholic indulgence.

Dr. Andrews Case.

The fully committed by the corporation of Brown university in forcing the resignation of President Andrews for what it regarded as his pernicious views on the silver question has been emphasized by the corporation's later action in unanimously asking him to recall his resignation. That the corporation did commit a stupendous piece of folly in the first place is on all sides conceded without question. And notwithstanding its course in asking him to withdraw his resignation was the only sensible path open to it, that was only brought about by the prodigious pressure of men who, better than the members of the corporation, could see the course of evil that must inevitably follow in the train of such prescription of independent thought and free expression in one of the oldest and most honorable seats of learning of this country.

The primary ground upon which the corporation sought to throttle Dr. Andrews was that his expressions in favor of free coinage of silver were unfair to the United States were utterly distasteful to many friends of the university and that, therefore, the institution had been deprived of considerable endowments which would otherwise have come to it. He was requested to keep his opinions to himself. Being at once a sincere humanitarian an American of fearlessness and independence and a patriot, Dr. Andrews declined to be hushed and cowed by the corporation and tendered his resignation. The indignant protest aroused from over the country, and especially from the faculty and alumni of the university, has moved the corporation to ask Dr. Andrews to remain.

The last chapter of the course pursued by the corporation towards Dr. Andrews cannot be better stated than it has been by ex-Secretary of State Richard Olney in a letter to the faculty of Brown university. After setting forth, among other things, his dissent from Dr. Andrews' views he says:

The real question, however, is the course pursued toward Dr. Andrews by the corporation of Brown university—a time-honored institution of the state. That an institution of learning should allow all things, get rich, and, therefore, should separate its teachings and limit the utterances of its faculty by the interests and sentiments of those who for the time being are the rich men of the community. The democratic and anti-democratic character of this doctrine your letter fully exposes, and thereby entitles you to the gratitude of every lover of American institutions generally, but of all well wishers of Brown university in particular.

Fortunate indeed will be the cause of education in the land if we have in the Andrews incident seen the last of attempts to prescribe liberty of thought and of expression in American institutions of learning. Too much already has the public confidence been wrested or left to wolf or crafted belief that in too many instances some other force than learning are the rich men of the community. Inevitably this kind of conscience that shall be taught in the courses they have chosen to ride.

AN AVALANCHE

Carries a Party of Tourists to Death.

A Sudden Disaster Puts an End to Many Hopes and an Engagement Among Them.

A Correspondent Tells Their Story.

Brieg, Switzerland, Sept. 3.—Further advices from Latasale, near Mont Pleurer, show that the reports of the accident to a party of Alpine tourists that recently occurred were not exaggerated. Eight persons started from Sion, capital of the canton of Valais, to ascend Mount Pleurer. The latter is 12,155 feet high and is not a very difficult ascent. The tourists were led by Jos. Gemsch, of Sion, and they reached the ascent divided into two parties, of four each.

The first of these parties reached the summit and the second was only a short distance behind when the first persons composing it were swept by an avalanche into a crevasse a thousand feet deep. It is still hoped that some of the tourists may be rescued. The missing party was composed of Pastor Gentz, two school boys from Lausanne and a young Englishman named Russell.

MICHIGAN'S GOLD FIELDS.

A Great Rush Has Started to the Rich Iron Ranges.

Special Dispatch to The Sentinel.

Negaunee, Mich., Sept. 3.—All the reports regarded concerning the richness of the recent gold find at Michigamme has been substantiated by later developments, and there is no end of excitement here in consequence.

The late Annie Clarke returned from the gold fields Monday evening with Mr. Mackie, one of the owners of the first location. Mr. Mackie brought down with him thirty ounces of gold, valued at about $300. This gold was extracted from surface quartz which was literally filled with iron pyrites and the yellow metal washed out.

The train returned yesterday loaded to the gunwales with prospectors. A party of fourteen residents of the city departed Monday evening on a chartered boat. The territory now claimed by gold enthusiasts is an extensive one, and it will take a wee time to prospect it thoroughly.

TRIED TO INSURE GUITEAU.

A Joke That Helped to Put Deathbed Insurance In Disrepute.

The following is the story of the protracted effort to insure Guiteau's life. The scheme was conceived by two young lawyers, and although they began it as a joke, there were many who took it seriously. One of its results was to help to kill "deathbed insurance" in the eastern part of the United States.

Garfield was shot in July, 1881, and the trial of the assassin began in November, 1881, and ended with a verdict of guilty on Jan. 25, 1882. Guiteau was hanged on June 30, 1882. At this time the deathbed insurance craze was at high water mark, many of the companies taking all kinds of risks. One event, in February, 1882, two young advertisers here were talking of Guiteau and his approaching execution at a trial had just been made. One of the attorneys suggested that they attempt to insure Guiteau's life, as a means of bringing ridicule on the "graveyard companies." They talked of it to a resident of Reading who at that time held a political office in Washington.

He entered into the joke and thought he could arrange the Washington end of the affair. Going back to Washington, the Berks county politician told a newspaper man in the lobby of the house of representatives of the scheme. The newspaper man went to the office of the Washington Post and communicated the matter to the Washington reporter man. His part was to take it to Guiteau and try to secure his signature.

The reporter visited Guiteau and told him that a firm of insurance agents in Reading, thinking that he would never live to be hanged, finally escape the gallows, considered him a good risk and wanted to insure him for $100,000. The reporter gave Guiteau to understand that neither he nor his friends would have to pay any of the premiums, but that would be attended to in Reading. Guiteau was also told that the agents would make it worth his while to sign the application. Although no figures were mentioned, he was left under the impression that he would be expected to pay what should be to executed. Guiteau listened to the scheme and then smiled. He knew the newspaper man, and told him he thought the entire matter a joke. The reporter knew it was not and did not say so. Guiteau took no steps in the matter.

The following day the Washington newspaper appeared with a long article, saying that a graveyard insurance company at Reading wanted to place $100,000 insurance on Guiteau's life. The name of the company was given. The article was in the form of an argument and said that large sums of money had been offered to secure Guiteau's signature and that a large sum was to go to the assassin's heirs. The news was sent all over the country subsequently.

By the time the Reading originators of the scheme were beginning to find that they had succeeded beyond their expectations. The officers of the company whose name was connected with the article were on a still hunt for the scheamers and lawsuits were threatened. Then the New York and New England papers took up the subject. Long articles appeared calling attention to the deathbed or graveyard insurance companies doing business in eastern Pennsylvania, and especially Reading. Next the insurance papers of England took up the matter. They cited the Pennsylvania deathbeds as examples of American life insurance. One daily paper in New York even called the attempt to secure Guiteau a disgrace on humanity. It is said by those conversant with their affairs that the Guiteau episode, as much as anything else, assisted in wiping out deathbed insurance concerns.—Reading (Pa.) Letter in New York Sun.

ALL TANGLED UP.

Ridiculous Effects of a Lesson on a Deathless Commercialty.

"Mixed gaming, sometimes!" Does mix!" politely saluted a pale, intellectual looking man as he passed the traveler to-an on the porch of which the landlord and drummer were conversing.

"Great Scott! What on earth is the matter with that man?" asked the commercial traveler in astonishment when the passer by was out of hearing. "That is the most peculiar impediment I ever heard of a man having in his speech. Who is he anyhow?"

"That is Lawyer Brookbend," replied the landlord. "He was the leading attorney in this county. His book is before Hotchkiss, which was tried last month, and in repeating the names of the plaintiff and defendant over and over he got this speech all tangled up, as you noticed, and hasn't been able to get it straightened out yet."

"Ah! And what was the nature of the case?"

"Well, Rich. I mean Hotchkiss ran a store over yonder on the corner, where you notice that a building was burned down, and Hitchcock bought him out, paying him a sum in cash for the store, fixtures, good will and accounts, just as they stood, all in a lump, and when he examined the books he found that Koch, that is, Hotchkiss had been keeping his accounts in such a novel fashion that he couldn't make head or tail of them.

"The merchant has a very short memory, and when he couldn't recall a customer's name he just charged the goods to some article in the appearance of the person and as a result he had accounts against the 'one eyed man,' the lady who talks fast, the quiet looking fellow with the lame dog,' and so on. Naturally there are several one eyed men and rapid spoken ladies and queer looking fellows in the county, and Koch or somebody else got into the courts and will demand of the charges on all notes when he attempted to make collections.

"Then upon hearing J. Hotchkiss I mean the other fellow—and Koch—called, the man he bought from, fought out. He said he had sold everything just as it stood, and Hotchkiss or Koch—the jawbreaker, had no right to kick coming. Lawyer Brookbend was tangled because with all his might and main he tried, and he repeats it so, in which the names of the plaintiff and defendant were repeated so often that he got tangled up till he couldn't see even straight to save his life. The jury got all separated up, too, and finally on a verdict for Koch—I mean Hotchkiss—was rendered. The judge ordered it to set them right and got tangled up himself and Kotchkissed and Kochhissed till he got mad and threw the case out of court.

"And how did Messrs Koch that is, Kissenger—no!—I mean Kochkiss—no!—began the dreamy.

"Why, Koshkick—I should say Kotchkoss, answered the landlord.

"Aw—whatever their outlandish names were!" growled the drummer. "How did they finally settle it?"

"Hush—er—Kochkiss—I mean Kotch—"

"Pshaw! Let's change the subject!"

"All right. I was just going to say that the stores burned down the night after the judge ruled the case of Koch—no, I mean Hotchkiss—against Brookbend, and most of the contents, including the accounts, were destroyed. A portion of the goods were saved, though, and these Lawyer Brookbend gobbled for his fees. Looks kinder like rain off in the northwest, doesn't it?"—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

Lord Cromer.

Lord Cromer is an omnivorous reader, but with a high critical standard. He is a hard and rapid worker. This is largely owing to the fact that he lays a sound foundation. Like Coleridge, he regards the Bible as the "statesman's manual." Few dictators have had the knowledge of Job and the prophecies of Isaiah better at their fingers' ends. Although no scholar in the ordinary sense, he might become a very skilful "lay" or "girl" before that happened, for none is so well known to have frowned on any of the duces for longer than five years. The successful one, who are commanded according to the grace stipulated, with 7 shilling Bibles, strongly bound in leather, are expected to attend divine service on the evening, when the vicar, of course, improves the occasion. Next the church is situated a patch of ground known as Bible Garden. The Church of All Saints, in which the ceremony takes place, is an interesting structure and contains a great quantity of Norman work, the original building having been erected by the abbots of Romsey, to which convent the ancient Lords, which still spare the ship, each house of the Cloisonné, James Bridge.

A Pennsylvania Special Train Makes a Good Run.

Special Telegram to the Sentinel.

Milan, Ohio, Sept. 1.

The Pennsylvania's Yellowstone Park excursion passed through this city this morning running as the second section of No. 15. It had five cars, all well filled with excursionists from New York. The train was late in reaching this city and when it pulled out of the depot it was under instructions to make up as much of the lost time as possible in the run to Chicago. It left here at 5:02 o'clock and arrived at the Chicago station at 9:15 o'clock, having made the run of 118 miles in three hours and thirteen minutes. This is regarded a good run, when the number of stops the train was compelled to make is taken into consideration. The train was hauled by engine 118, with Engineer Harry Rogers at the throttle.

A RAILWAY FOREMAN INJURED.

Merritt Cramer, one of the Pennsylvania's special policemen, was painfully injured by falling from train No. 73 last night, at Warsaw. Cramer got into a box car to drive out a tramp who was stealing a ride. As he was about to climb up the side of the car again, his foot slipped in the stirrup and he fell, head downward, and was dragged for some distance. As the train swung over a bridge across the Logan road, he lost his hold and fell to the ground below, a distance of nine feet. His body was badly bruised and cut, but strange to say, no bones were broken. He was brought to the city on passenger train No. 38, and taken to his home, where Dr. George C. Stevens attended him.

SICK AND INJURED.

William Doulin, of the electric works, is sick and off duty.

Assistant Fireman Ira Burger is taking a vacation of a few days.

The Pennsylvania ol opmen's ball club will play two games at Plymouth on Labor day.

F. Brinkman, of the Pittsburg playing staff, is off duty on account of the death of his sister's child.

J. Pegen, passenger fireman on the Grand Rapids and Indiana run, is off duty on account of sickness.

Car Inspector H. F. Meyers, of the Pittsburg, is disabled by a lame back, the result of a fall a few days ago.

A. Barker, a passenger car painter in the Pittsburg shops, has gone to Ohio to spend a week with his parents.

Machinist C. M. Tower, of the Pittsburg, and his family are now comfortably quartered at 137 Fourth Calhoun street.

D. D. Wyer and Theodore Kress, runners in the Pittsburg shops, are taking a lay off to attend to some private business.

J. Stanley Orr, of Cincinnati, traveling passenger agent for this territory of the Southern Pacific company, was in the city today.

William Brady, of the Pittsburg blacksmith shop, had a foot injured last evening by an iron dropping upon it. He was unable to report for duty this morning.

M. DeVitt, a Nickel Plate brakeman, is suffering from rheumatism and has been unable to work for a few days.

Since January 1 the Pennsylvania lines have handled 12,843,470 tons of coal and coke, 220,156 more tons than in the corresponding period of 1896.

The electric works sent eight or nine dynamos, some of them large ones, to Chicago this morning. There they will be sent to various parts of the country.

The Pittsburg and the Wabash had a big run of freight east bound last night. This heavy business, if it continues, is bound to make plenty of work in the shops sooner or later.

J. C. Knight and H. W. Ibeff mayer, of the engineering department of the electric works, have returned to the city. Mr. Knight had been at Wheeling, W. Va., and Mr. Deffmeyer at Kenton, O.

Foreman Julius Henry, of the truck making gang at the Pittsburg, is off duty on account of the death of his brother, mention of which was made in THE SENTINEL yesterday.

Blacksmith William Brainard, who has been ailing for several days, is now quite sick with malarial fever and is bedfast.

G. H. White, a Nickel Plate brakeman, severed his connection with that road yesterday and his run, with Conductor D. L. Billings, has fallen to Brakeman O. C. Speed.

The large new interlocking plant at Whiting, Ind., where the Baltimore and Ohio and several other roads cross, will be completed this week and put in operation at once.

W. F. Snyder has been appointed traveling passenger agent of the Baltimore and Ohio. Mr. Snyder was formerly identified with the passenger department of the Big Four.

The limited express on the Baltimore & Ohio Chicago division was on Sunday hauled quite a distance at a speed of seventy miles an hour. There were seven cars in the train, exclusive of the locomotive.

There is trouble between the roads at Kansas City. Two roads looking for packing going at the Pittsburg coal, it is feared, have been closing shops, temporarily on account of the death of the engineer, mention of which was made in THE SENTINEL last evening, for an indefinite period.

SEWERS AND SIDEWALKS

Interesting Session of the Board of Works—Other Business Transacted.

The board of works, at the regular meeting held last evening, passed a number of petitions for sewers and sidewalks and also a petition from Anselm Feather and others asking for an asphalt pavement on East Creighton avenue, from Calhoun to Lafayette street. The petition was signed by nearly every property owner on the street. The matter was not acted upon, but will come up at a future meeting. M. F. Barlear and others petitioned for a sewer in the alley between Grant avenue and Wabash avenue, from Alliger street to the Wabash railway, and the engineer was ordered to prepare plans and specifications for the improvements. Delegates of a hockey street property owners appeared to ask the board to order either Broadway or Fulton street opened across the Nickel Plate railway, and also to discuss the dispute regarding the railroad company's occupation of a portion of the street. The original records provide for a street forty-five feet in width as far as the water's edge, but the curve in the Nickel Plate track interrupts the street before the river is reached.

The assessment rolls for the paving of the alley between Warren and Washington streets, from Fulton to Broadway, and for constructing a sewer in the alley between Walton avenue and Fletcher avenue, from Alliger street to Wayne trace were approved, and the board set September 15 as the date for hearing remonstrances against the same. The clerk was instructed to notify the Jennery Electric Lighting company to place a light at North Calhoun and Fourth streets.

The board confirmed the passage of the following resolutions: For a sewer in the alley east of Calhoun street, from the alley south of Creighton avenue to Tabor street; sewer in the alley between Walnut and Glasgow avenues, from Randall street to the alley south; also in the alley between Randall street and Matthews avenue, from Wabash avenue to Glasgow avenue. For side walks on the west side of Calhoun street, from Fifth street to Sixth street; sidewalk on the north side of Ilis avenue, from Metz street to the western terminus; sidewalks on the south side of Allen street, from Calhoun street to Union; sidewalks on the east side of Clinton street, from Sixteenth street to Pontiac; sidewalks on the east side of Fletcher avenue from Alliger street to the Wabash railroad. The board will receive proposals from contractors on September 16.

The next regular meeting of the board falls on Monday, but that being Labor day the meeting will be held the following day.

HAY FEVER.

It Can be Cured by Hiscox' Double Treatment.

Read the Testimonials of Persons Permanently Cured of this Fever, Catarrh, Asthma and Bronchitis.

Complained.

Hay Fever, or Hay Asthma, as it is often called, is a combination of Bronchial and Nasal affections. The immediate cause and source of irritation being of external origin, attacking individuals during the months of May, June and August. The pollen of hay, dried grasses and ripe wood scrapes in contact with the nasal and bronchial membranes, in rendering all the air passages, causing immediate irritation frequently disabling persons afflicted therewith. The great discomfort and suffering, may nothing of the loss of life caused by this terrible disease, may be avoided by using Hiscox Double Treatment, which is a sure, safe and permanent cure. Commence using the medicine at once, and get your system in condition to resist the effect of those agencies upon the mucous membrane, thereby keeping the tissues in a healthy condition.

CATARRH.

What the President Manager of the Chicago Newspaper Union has to Say

The Hiscox Medicine Company, Fort Wayne, Ind.

GENTLEMEN:—Your Mr. A. H. Hiscox persuaded me to give your Double Treatment for catarrh a trial, and after having used it about 30 days, I can honestly say that the results have been very satisfactory. I have been a sufferer from the disease since childhood, and was so bad at times that the membrane would bleed constantly. By the use of your medicine I have stopped the bleeding, my head is greatly relieved and I have no more difficulty with my breathing. Yours truly,

CHARLES D. TILLO.

A Word From Charles Yagerschauer, the Electrician.

DEAR SIRS:—I have had a bad case of catarrh for 15 years. There was a constant dripping of mucous into my throat. Every morning my nose, head and throat would be filled up. After a terrible siege of trying to remove the mucous I would become so sick that it was with difficulty that I could eat my breakfast. I had no appetite. The disease also developed into bronchitis and dyspepsia. I read of your Double Treatment for Catarrh, and after having used your remedies for a short time, I can cheerfully say that now my appetite is good, I have no more trouble with indigestion, my throat is well, and my general health has not been as good for years.

Signed CHARLES YAGERSCHAUER.

A WIND storm of unusual violence prevailed in Indianapolis Wednesday afternoon and a large part of the population was frightened. It is the wicked who dwell in fear.

WHILE Emperor William is having undisturbed privilege to proclaim the divine right of kings, President Faure, in Paris, is dodging dynamite bombs. These things nicely illustrate the difference between some monarchies and some republics.

AND while you talk don't forget that there's no money in talking unless you do it where those who listen have to first do business with a doorkeeper. Which is to say that the way to make the country prosper is not put in all your time bailing what the Dingley law will do or won't do, but to try to find a job and go to work.

THE young man whose ambition culminates in a cigarette and a shirt front with four colors, whose reliance is a mother not above washing and plain sewing for him, and whose pride is the fact he never works, is not in all cases trouble, some to the police. And that is the pity of it. There should be some means of railroading him to a stone pile.

THE city of Peru has inaugurated a fight for reduction of the rates charged for natural gas by the big Dietrich syndicate. The franchises of the syndicate expires in Peru November 18 and a reduction of rates will be asked for. This is regarded as the beginning of general demand on the syndicate in all Indiana cities where its franchises will soon expire.

MUCH complaint is heard about the dreadful condition of Spy Run avenue since the street car company were granted permission to lay their double tracks. It is difficult to drive on that thoroughfare, owing to the extremely narrow road way left by the tracks for vehicles. Many farmers complain that they are compelled to drive so close to the cars that their horses cannot be prevented from taking fright.

AT the Universalist state convention at Indianapolis this week a number of the members of the church are making an effort to change the creed. It seems that the Unitarian part of the church are trying to have the Universalists come with them and make one church. The matter will be finally settled by a national convention in Chicago next month. Many of the Indiana Universalists are loud in their protests against any attempt to force them to adopt the Unitarian belief.

THOSE who have predicted that William J. Bryan would soon fall from democratic leadership read their mistake in his every appearance before the people and in every mention of his name in democratic bodies. His hold on the democratic masses has strengthened and continues to grow. He is the ideal leader, manly, fearless, honest and capable. Democrats in all parts of the country regard him as their rightful commander and they will not look elsewhere for leadership. All discussions of his influence having waned spring from previously the same sources as when he was a candidate.

WITH the opening of the schools this fall practical scientific temperance will have a place and will be taught in all grades in the public schools of Indiana. The subject is to be presented to children in its simplest aspects in the first year grades. Thence the pupil is led progressively through the more intricate phases of the subject up to consideration of the effect of alcohol upon the nervous tissue in the act of temperance work that gives promise for the future. Its results should be broad, far-reaching and effective. Temperance as a scientific educational process ought to and will accomplish vast good. Its beneficent influences will not only be exerted on the growing generation of school children, but will be felt at once in the homes of the children. The subject is stirring and novel and reveals knowledge of evil and folly of which too many fathers are ignorant. The school children will talk consistently to their parents of what they have learned in school about alcohol and its effects, and many a man who drinks will be taught by his unconscious children of the folly and wrong of alcoholic indulgence.

Re Andrews' Case.

The folly committed by the corporation of Brown university in forcing the resignation of President Andrews for what it regarded as his pernicious views on the silver question, has been emphasized by the corporation's later action in unanimously asking him to recall his resignation. That the corporation did commit a stupendous piece of folly in the first place is on all sides conceded without question. And notwithstanding its course in asking him to withdraw his resignation was the only possible path open to it, that was only brought about by the prodigious pressure of sane sentiment from the members of the corporation and the cause of evil that must inevitably follow in the train of such proscription of independent thought and free expression in one of the oldest and most honorable seats of learning of this country.

The primary ground upon which the corporation sought to throttle Dr. Andrews was that his expressions in favor of free coinage of silver independently by the United States were utterly distasteful to monied friends of the university and that, therefore, the institution had been deprived of considerable endowments which would otherwise surely come to it. He was requested to keep his opinions to himself. Being at once a zealous humanitarian, an American of fearlessness and independence and a patriot, Dr. Andrews declined to be knitted and corbed by the corporation and tendered his resignation. The indignant protest aroused from over the country, and especially from the literary and alumni of the university, has moved the corporation to ask Dr. Andrews to remain.

The base character of the course pursued by the corporation towards Dr. Andrews cannot be better stated than it has been by ex-Secretary of State Richard Olney in a letter to the faculty of Brown university. After setting forth, among other things, his dissent from Dr Andrews' views, he says:

The true objection, however, to the course pursued toward Dr. Andrews by the corporation of Brown university is its implied inculcations of the doctrine that an institution of learning should, above all things, get rich, and, therefore, should square its teachings and limit the utterances of its faculty by the interests and sentiments of those who for the time being are the rich men of the community. The demoralizing and degrading character of this doctrine your letter fully exposes, and thereby entitles you to the gratitude not only of American citizens generally, but of all well wishers of Brown and recently in particular.

Fortunate, indeed, will be the cause of education in this land if we have in the Andrews incident seen the last of attempts to prescribe liberty of thought and expression in American institutions of learning. Too much already has the public confidence been weakened by well grounded belief that in too many instances some one, for the time being, are the rich men of the community," have dictated the kind of economics that shall be taught in the colleges they have chosen to endow.

AN AVALANCHE

Carries a Party of Tourists to Death.

A Terrible Predicament, Two of the Members Dead and an Englishman Swept Into a Crevasse 1,000 Feet Deep.

BERNE, Switzerland, Sept. 3.—Earthen advices from LaSaale, near Mount Fleurier, show that the reports of the accident to a party of Alpine tourists is that violently more and exaggerated. Eight persons started from Berne, capital of the canton of that name, for the summit of Mount Fleurier. The latter is 12,188 feet high and is not a very difficult ascent. The tourists were led by Pastor Gonin, of Berne, and they made the ascent divided into two parties of four each.

The first of these parties reached the summit and the second was only a short distance behind when the four persons composing it were swept by an avalanche into a crevasse a thousand feet deep. It is said hopeless. Four score of hundreds may be rescued. The climbing party was composed of Pastor Gonin, two school boys from Lausanne and a young Englishman named Barnard.

MICHIGAN'S GOLD FIELDS.

A Great South Dan District in the Rich Iron Ranges.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Sept. 2.—All that has been reported concerning the richness of the recent gold find at Michigamme Reservoir has been realized by later developments, and there is no end of excitement here in consequence.

The tug Annie Clarke returned from the new gold fields Monday evening with Mr. Markin, one of the owners of the first location. Mr. Markin brought down with him thirty ounces of gold, valued at about $700. This gold was extracted from surface quartz which was crushed in an iron mortar and the yellow metal washed out.

The tug returned yesterday loaded down with more rich prospectors. A party of fourteen residents of the Soo departed Monday evening on a chartered boat. The territory characterized by gold indications is an extensive one, and it will take a long time to prospect it thoroughly.

TRIED TO INSURE GUITEAU.

A Judge Thinks Bellgood to Have Established Insurable Interest in the Prisoner's Life.

The following is the story of the pretended effort to insure Guiteau's life. The scheme was conceived by two young lawyers, and, although they began it as a joke, there were many who took it seriously. The result of its results was to help to kill "deathbed insurance" in the eastern part of the United States.

Garfield was shot in July, 1881, and the trial of the assassin began in November, 1881, and ended with a verdict of guilty on Jan. 25, 1882. Guiteau was hanged on June 30, 1882. At this time the deathbed insurance craze was at high water mark, many of the companies taking all kinds of risks. One evening in February, 1882, two young attorneys here were talking of Guiteau, for whom an application for a new trial had just been made. One of the attorneys suggested that they attempt to insure Guiteau's life, as a means of bringing ridicule upon deathbed insurance. They talked of it to a resident of Reading who at that time held a political office in Washington.

He entered into the joke and thought he could arrange the Washington end of the affair. Going back to Washington, the Berks county politician told a newspaper man there of the business of the insurance companies in Reading, and also of the scheme of insuring Guiteau. Meanwhile, the attorneys made out an application for policy of insurance on Guiteau's life. The application nearly got the jokers into trouble. Among the many life insurance companies in Reading at the time was one that did not properly come under the designation of a deathbed company. By accident a blank of this particular company was filled out in due form and forwarded to the Washington newspaper man. His part was to take it to Guiteau and try to secure his signature.

The reporter visited Guiteau and told him that a firm of insurance agents in Reading, thinking that he might secure a new trial and eventually escape the gallows, considered him a good risk and wanted to insure him for $100,000. The reporter gave Guiteau to understand that neither he nor his friends would have to pay any of the assessments; that would be attended to in Reading. Guiteau was also told that the agents would make it worth his while to sign the application, and though no figures were mentioned, he was left under the impression that his heirs might expect $20,000 should he be executed. Guiteau listened to the scheme and then smiled. He knew the name of the firm, and told him he thought the entire matter a joke. The reporter knew it was, but did not say so. Guiteau declined to sign then.

The following day the Washington newspaper appeared with a long article, saying that a prominent life insurance company at Reading wanted to place $100,000 insurance on Guiteau's life. The name of the company was given. The article was in the form of an exposure and said that large sums of money had been offered to secure Guiteau's signature and that a large sum was to go to the assassin's heirs. The news was sent all over the country subsequently.

By this time the Reading originators of the scheme were beginning to find that they had exceeded beyond their expectations. The officers of the company whose name was connected with the affair went on a still hunt for the schemers and insurgents were threatened. Then the Berks county and New Yorker people took up the subject. Long articles appeared calling attention to the deathbed or graveyard insurance companies doing business in eastern Pennsylvania, and especially in Reading. Most of the insurance papers of England took up the subject. They cited the Pennsylvania deathbeds as samples of American life insurance. One daily paper in San Francisco called the attempt to insure Guiteau a disgrace on humanity. It is said by those conversant with their affairs that the Guiteau episode, as much as anything else, assisted in wiping out deathbed insurance concerns.—Reading (Pa.) Letter in New York Sun.

ALL TANGLED UP.

Humorous Account of a Lawsuit on a Gentleman's Bicycle.

"Blood curdling, monologue! Does any?" pointedly subtract a pale, intellectual looking man as he passed the Kentsville tavern, on the porch of which the landlord and drummer were conversing.

"Great Scott! What on earth is the matter with that man?" asked the commercial traveler in astonishment when the passer by was out of hearing. "That is the most peculiar impediment I ever heard of a man having in his speech. Who is he anyhow?"

"That is Lawyer Broadhead," replied the landlord. "He was the leading attorney in the case of Mitchcock versus Hotchkiss, which was tried last month in court in regarding the names of the plaintiff and defendant over and over he got his speech all tangled up, as you noticed, and hasn't been able to get it straightened out yet."

"Ah! And what was the nature of the case?"

"Well, Hitch—I mean Hotchkiss—ran a store over yonder on the corner, where you notice that a building was burned down, and Hitchcock bought him out, paying him a sum in cash for the store, fixtures, good will and accounts, just as they stood, all in a lump, and when he examined the books he found that Koch—that is, Hotchkiss—had been keeping his accounts in such a novel fashion that he couldn't make head or tail of them.

"The merchant has a very short memory, and when he couldn't recall a customer's name he just charged the goods to some peculiarity in the appearance of the person, such as a scar, a wart, a mole, against the 'one eyed man,' the lady who 'talks fast,' the queer looking fellow with the 'lame dog,' and so on. Naturally there are several one eyed men and rapid spoken ladies and queer looking fellows in the vicinity, and Koch—er—er—the purchaser of the accounts, met with demands of the charges on all sides when he attempted to make collections.

"He—oops he said Hotchkiss—I mean the other fellow—and Koch—er—ah—the man he bought from, fought back. He said he had sold everything just as it stood, and Hotchkiss—er—I beg the purchaser, had no rightful kick coming. Lawyer Broadhead was in that house with all his might and made a thrilling and eloquent speech, in which the names of the plaintiff and defendant were repeated so often that he got tangled up till he couldn't say 'you rascals' in his life. The jury got all snarled up, too, and brought in a verdict for Hotchkiss and then tried to change it by saying they meant Hotchkiss. The judge endeavored to set them right by telling them that Hotchkiss and Kitchkissed and Kitchkissed till he got mad and threw the case out of court."

"And how did Messrs. Koch—that is, Hke—er—er"—began the dreamer.

"Why, Koshkick—I should say Kishkosh," answered the landlord.

"Aw—whatever their confounded names were!" growled the dreamer. "How did they finally settle it?"

"Hhh—er—Kock's—I mean Kork"—

"Pshaw! Let's change the subject!"

All right. I was just going to say that the store burned down the night after the judge ruled the case out of court, and most of the contents, including the accounts, were destroyed. A portion of the goods were saved, though, and those Lawyer Broadhead grabbed. Now Mr. Locke Linden kicks him out in the northeast, doesn't it?"—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Loud Compass.

Lord Cromer is an omnivorous reader, but with a high critical standard. He likes no inferior work. This is largely owing to the fact that he lays a sound foundation. Like Coleridge, he regards the Bible as the "statesman's manual." Few divines know the book of Job and the prophecies of Isaiah better; but, though again with Coleridge he would say that "sublimity is Hebrew by birth," he begins early to sign the praises of Greek and Latin authors. He loves his Homer. The twelfth book of the "Iliad" is his favorite. Cicero and Juvenal he enjoys. His favorite study is history and his favorite period the French revolution. Indian speculations of course interest him keenly. His knowledge of the English poets is remarkable. Dryden's masculine verse attracts him, but his voluminous notebooks contain extracts from writers of every century. He loves a good novel, and enjoys healthy stories, like those of the new romantic school of novelists, but he never fails to express his loathing of the nauseous fiction of the day and has been known to put aspirants for literary fame to bitter shame for their sins he could find slight.—Page, "Lord Cromer, a Biography," H. D. Traill.

At sunset, when the rosy light was dying
For death the softening of the week,
I saw a sailor drowning in the sea.
His ship was gone.
Fragments of oar, I noted, made it last hope.
I'd fly away from every morbid sorrow
And find my rest.

But when the dawn a shiny veil was weaving,
Made of soft light and dew,
Deep in the forest where her nests was quiver
But—
There was your nest.
Pigeon, I know, and no lawyer shall be consulted
Lest our city sew in practicing quack.
There was no thought of lawyers in your palaces.
Down here and rest.

Paris Starting a Revolution.

The boulevard, which we followed, presented a strange spectacle. There was hardly a soldier to seen, although it was nearly 4 o'clock in the morning, and one heard not the slightest sound of a human voice, but all the little sentry boxes which stand along this endless avenue seemed to move about and totter upon their bases, and from time to time one of them would fall with a crash, while the great trees along the curb came rumbling down into the roadway as though of their own accord. These acts of destruction were the acts of isolated individuals, as we soon found out, because presently, rapidly and hurriedly, appearing in this way the materials for the barricade which others were to erect. Nothing ever seemed to me more to resemble the carrying on of an industry, and, as a matter of fact, that is the greater number of these men it was nothing less. The instinct of disorder had given them the taste for it and their experience of so many former insurrections the practice. I do not know that during the whole course of the day I was more struck with the idea that through this solitude in which one saw, so to speak, the worst passions of mankind at play, without the good ones appearing, I would rather have met in the same place a furious crowd, and I remember that, calling Langumais' attention to these fortuitous edifices and falling trees, I gave vent to the phrase which had long been on my lips and said: "Believe me, this time it is no longer a riot. It is a revolution."—"Recollections of De Tocqueville."

The Question Solved.

At a school examination some of the children were asked to give their ideas of the expression, "His spirits were dampened." Only one hand went up and the little fellow, on being invited to give his explanation, said, "He had been putting water in his whisky."—San Francisco Chronicle.

GAMBLING FOR BIBLES.

Curious Scenes at Custom Hour Up to the Present Time—Figures of St. Ives.

On each Whitsun Tuesday, in accordance with the annual custom, there occurs at the ancient town of St. Ives, in the county of Huntingdon, a ceremony which, if not absolutely unique, is a curious relic of ancient times as may be found in a march of many days. On first thought it seems that the sight of six little boys and six little girls doing in a parish church to win a gaily of a Bible seem to be unique, both in the past and in the present. It is certainly unique enough at present, but for the satisfaction of historical accuracy it must be said that, connected with the Church of St. Lawrence at Reading, there existed at one time a doing ceremony for the encouragement of good moral servants. But the rattle of the dice has so long ceased at Reading that St. Ives can claim to stand alone in the present.

Theequaer old custom started in this way: As far back as the year 1676 a bequest of £52, invested in land, was made by an eccentric Dr. Robert Wild of Oundle, Northamptonshire, for the purpose of distributing six Bibles yearly among 12 children. It was stipulated that six boys and six girls should cast dice for the Bibles during divine service every Whitsun Tuesday morning. When the custom was first carried out in 1693, the dice were rattled on the altar. This was done for many years, but about half a century ago the popularity of the thing fell off, much for the reigning vicar, and during his time and ever since the throwing has been done on an ordinary table placed in the center aisle.

Briefly this is how the ceremony is performed nowadays: At about 9 o'clock in the morning the vicar or his curate appears with the church wardens in the center aisle. Some ordinary little table is procured from a neighboring cottage. Then in file six nice little boys and six nice little girls, who take up positions near the table. The signal is given, and three boys begin competing with three boys, and then half the girls compete with the other half in like manner. Each competitor throws the dice three times, and the churchwardens keep the counts. The unsuccessful six then go on trying until they win, and, although one might become a very old "boy" or "girl" before that happened, forfeits is never known to have frozen out any of the dicers after more than five years. The successful six, who are presented, according to the price stipulated, with 7 shilling Bibles, strongly bound in leather, are supposed to attend divine service in the evening. Less the vicar, of course, interprets the occasion. Near the church is situated a patch of land still known as "Bible orchard." The Church of All Saints, in which the ceremony takes place, is set in the center of the town, and the ground around it is honeycombed with a great quantity of Norman work, the original building having been erected by the abbots of Ramsey, who also constructed the ancient bridge which still spans the sluggish bosom of the Ouse.—St. James Budget.

Matthew Backtiger, a German, who many years ago exhibited himself in London, had neither arms nor legs, but nevertheless managed to write a good hand, very clear and round, by holding the pen between the stump of his right arm and his chest.

A Pennsylvania Special Train Makes a Good Run.

Special Information Gleaned Here With Reference to Warren—Affairs at the Depots.

The Pennsylvania's Yellowstone Park excursion passed through this city this morning, running as the second section of No. 18. It had five cars, all well filled with excursionists from New York. The train was late in reaching this city and when it pulled out of the depot it was under instructions to make up as much of the lost time as possible in order to get to Chicago. It left here at 5:03 o'clock and arrived at the Chicago station at 9:38 o'clock, having made the run of 118 miles in three hours and thirteen minutes. This is regarded a good run, when the number of stops the train was compelled to make is taken into consideration. The train was hauled by engine 129, with Engineer Harry Rogers at the throttle.

A RAILWAY POLICEMAN INJURED.

Morritt Cramer, one of the Pennsylvania's special policemen, was painfully bruised by falling from train No. 75 last night, at Warsaw. Cramer got into a car to drive out a tramp, who was stealing a ride. As he was about to climb up the side of the car again, his foot slipped in the stirrup and he fell, head downward, and was dragged for some distance. As the train swung over a bridge across the wagon road, he lost his hold and fell to the ground a few, a distance of nine feet. His body was badly bruised and cut, but strange to say, no bones were broken. He was brought to the city on passenger train No. 38, and taken to his house, where Dr. George C. Stevens attended him.

SEWERS AND SIDEWALKS

Common Council Assembles at the Board of Works—Other Business Transacted.

The board of works, at the regular meeting held last evening, received a number of petitions for sewers and sidewalks and also a petition from Anselm Fuelber and others asking for an asphalt pavement on East Creighton avenue, from Calhoun to Lafayette street. The petition was signed by nearly every property owner on the street. The matter was not acted upon, but will come up at a future meeting. M. F. Barbour and others petitioned for a sewer in the alley between Grant avenue and Wabash avenue, from Allgeyer street to the Wabash railway, and the engineer was ordered to prepare plans and specifications for the improvements. A delegation of Gingley street property owners appeared, to ask for bond to order other Broadway or Fulton street opened across the Nickel Plate railway, and also to discuss the dispute regarding the railroad company's occupation of a portion of the street. The original records provide for a street forty-five feet in width as far as the water's edge, but the curve in the Nickel Plate track intercepts the street before the river is reached.

The assessment rolls for the paving of the alley between Wayne and Washington streets, from Fulton to Broadway, and for construction of a sewer in the alley between Walton avenue and Fletcher avenue, from Allgeyer street to Wayne, were approved, and the board set September 16 as the date for hearing remonstrances against final action. The clerk was instructed to notify the Jenney Electric Light company to place a light at North

HAY FEVER.

It Can be Cured by Hiscox' Double Treatment.

Read the Testimonials of Persons Permanently Cured of Hay Fever, Catarrh, Asthma and Kindred Complaints.

Hay Fever, or Hay Asthma, as it is often called, is a combination of Bronchial and Nasal affections. The immediate cause and source of irritation being of external origin, attacking individuals during the months of May, June and August. The pollen of hay, dried grasses and rag weed comes in contact with the nasal and bronchial membranes, inviting all the air passages, causing immediate irritation, frequently disabling persons afflicted therewith. The great discomfort and suffering, say nothing of the loss of life caused by this terrible disease, may be avoided by using Hiscox' Double Treatment, which is a sure, safe and permanent cure. Commence using the medicines at once, and get your system in condition to resist the effect of those agencies upon the mucous membrane, thereby keeping the tissues in a healthy condition.

CATARRH.

What the Resident Manager of the Chicago Newspaper Union has to Say.

The Hiscox Medicine Company, Fort Wayne, Ind.

GENTLEMEN:—Your Mr. A. R. Hiscox persuaded me to give your Double Treatment a trial for catarrh I had, and after having used it about 30 days, I can honestly say that the results have been very satisfactory. I have been a sufferer from the disease since childhood, and was so bad at times that the membrane would bleed occasionally. By the use of your medicine I have stopped the bleeding, my head is greatly relieved and I have no more difficulty with my breathing. Yours truly
CHARLES D. TILLO.

Cured of Catarrh.

The Hiscox Medicine Co.:

DEAR SIRS:—I am twenty-eight years old, had Catarrh all my life. For years my appetite was bad I could not sleep well. I was becoming deaf. The disease in my head became so bad that one could hear the air escape from my ear. To sum it all up, the disease was killing me by inches. I heard of your double treatment for Catarrh and began the use of the medicine at once. After using eight bottles of your remedies, I can happy to say, that I have a good appetite, I sleep well, my deafness is cured, and I have gained sixteen and one-half pounds in four months. I advise every one who has Catarrh to give your medicine a trial.

A year ago I had a hemorrhage of the lungs. Since that time for months I have been troubled with hemorrhages. I was advised by a friend to use your New Asthma and Cough Cure. I have taken four bottles of the remedy. I have no more soreness in my lungs and the hemorrhages have ceased. I cannot say enough in the praise of your medicine.

Dear Sirs:—I had Asthma for twenty years. I treated with physicians in St. Louis and in other cities, and have used many remedies, but never received any relief what-ever until I commenced the use of your New Asthma and Cough Cure before I had used one bottle I received great relief, and after having used four bottles I was entirely cured. I am happy to recommend your remedy to all who are suffering from Asthma. May the Lord bless you and your wonderful medicine.

Testimonial From Ex-Judge of the Superior Court of Allen County.

Hiscox's Medicine Co., Room 2 Schmitz Block City:

Having been a great sufferer from that most distressing disease, Asthma, and having used your Asthma remedy for the last few months, I can certify very cheerfully, that it has afforded me great relief, and I feel confident that in the majority of cases, will accomplish a permanent cure.
Respectfully yours,
A. A. CHAPIN.

A Word From Charles Yagerlehner, the Electrician.

DEAR SIRS:—I have had a bad case of catarrh for 14 years. There was a constant dripping of mucous into my throat. Every morning my nose, head and throat would be filled up. After a terrible siege of trying to remove the mucous I would become so sick that it was with difficulty that I could eat my breakfast. I had no appetite. The disease developed into bronchitis and dyspepsia. I read of your Double Treatment for Catarrh, and after having used your remedies for a short time, I can cheerfully say that now my appetite is good, I have no more trouble with indigestion, my throat is well, and my general health has not been as good for years.

WITH the opening of the schools this fall practical scientific temperance will have a place and will be taught in all grades in the public schools of Indiana. The subject is to be presented to children in its simplest aspects in the first year grades. Thence the pupil is led progressively through the more intricate phases of the subject up to consideration of the effect of alcohol on the mind. This is the sort of temperance work that gives promise for the future. Its results should be broad, far reaching and effective. Temperance as a scientific educational process ought to and will accomplish vast good. Its beneficent influence will not only be exerted on the growing generation of school children, but will be felt at once in the homes of the children. The subject is striking and novel and reveals knowledge of evil and folly of which too many fathers are ignorant. The school children will talk ceaselessly at home of what they have learned in school about alcohol and its effects, and many a man who drinks will be taught by his unconscious children of the folly and wrong of alcoholic indulgence.

Dr. Andrews' Case.

The folly committed by the corporation of Brown university in forcing the resignation of President Andrews for what it regarded as his pernicious views on the silver question, has been emphasized by the corporation's later action in unanimously asking him to recall his resignation. That the corporation did commit a stupendous piece of folly in the first place is on all sides conceded without question. And notwithstanding its course in asking him to withdraw his resignation was like only possible path open to it, that was only brought about by the prodigious pressure of men who, better than the members of the corporation, could see the current of evil that must inevitably follow in the train of such prescription of independent thought and free expression in one of the oldest and most honorable seats of learning of this country.

The primary ground upon which the corporation sought to throttle Dr. Andrews was that his expressions in favor of free coinage of silver independently by the United States were utterly distasteful to rewired friends of the university and that, therefore, the institution had been deprived of considerable endowments which would otherwise have come to it. He was requested to keep his opinions to himself. Being at once a sincere bimetallist, an American of fearlessness and independence and a patriot, Dr. Andrews declined to be bottled and corked by the corporation and tendered his resignation. The indignant protest aroused from over the country, and especially from the faculty and alumni of the university, has moved the corporation to ask Dr. Andrews to remain.

The base character of the course pursued by the corporation towards Dr. Andrews cannot be better stated than it has been by ex-Secretary of State Richard Olney in a letter to the faculty of Brown university. After setting forth, among other things, his dissent from Dr. Andrews' views, he says:

The true objection, however, to the course pursued toward Dr. Andrews by the corporation of Brown university is its implied proclamation of the doctrine that an institution of learning should, above all things, get rich, and, therefore, should square its teachings and limit the utterances of its faculty by the interests and sentiments of those who for the time being are the rich men of the community. The demoralizing and illogical significance of this doctrine your letter fully exposes, and thereby entitles you to the gratitude not only of American citizens generally, but of all well wishers of Brown university in particular.

Fortunate, indeed, will be the cause of education in this land if we have in the American academy seem the last of attempts to prescribe liberty of thought and expression in American institutions of learning. Too much already has the public confidence been weakened by well grounded belief that in too many instances active calls for the time being, are the rulers of the community. Inevitable the kind of endowers that shall be sought in the region they have chosen to endow.

AN AVALANCHE

Carries a Party of Tourists to Death.

A Swedish Professor, Two of His Associate and an Englishman Swept Into a Crevasse 1,000 Feet Deep.

BERNE, Switzerland, Sept. 3.—Further advices from Lausade, near Mount Fleurier, show that the reports of the accident to a party of Alpine tourists in that vicinity were not exaggerated. Eight persons started from Brien, capital of the canton of Valais, to ascend Mount Fleurier. The latter is 12,155 feet high and is not a very difficult ascent. The tourists were led by Pastor Gonin, of Brien, and they made the ascent divided into two parties of four each.

The first of these parties reached the summit and the second was only a short distance behind when the four persons composing it were swept by an avalanche into a crevasse a thousand feet deep. It is still hoped that some of the tourists may be rescued. The missing party was composed of Pastor Gonin, two school boys from Lausanne and a young Englishman named Bernard.

MICHIGAN'S GOLD FIELDS.

A Good Rush Has Started to the Rich New Finds.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Sept. 3.—All that has been reported concerning the richness of the recent gold find at Michipicoten has been substantiated by later developments, and there is no end of excitement here in consequence.

The tug Annie Clarke returned from the new gold fields Monday evening with Mr. Mackie, one of the owners of the first location. Mr. Mackie brought down with him thirty ounces of gold, valued at about $500. This gold was extracted from surface quartz which was crushed in an iron mortar and the yellow metal washed out.

The tug on arrived yesterday loaded to the gunwales with prospectors. A party of fourteen residents of the Soo departed Monday evening on a chartered boat. The territory characterized by gold indications is an extensive one, and it will take some time to prospect it thoroughly.

TRIED TO INSURE GUITEAU.

A Joke That Helped to Kill Scrubbed Insurance in Pennsylvania.

The following is the story of the pastemboard effort to insure Guiteau's life. The scheme was conceived by two young lawyers, and, although they began it as a joke, there were many who took it seriously. One of its results was to help to kill "deathbed insurance" in the eastern part of the United States.

Garfield was shot in July, 1881, and the trial of the assassin began in November, 1881, and ended with a verdict of guilty on Jan. 25, 1882. Guiteau was hanged on June 30, 1882. At this time the deathbed insurance craze was at high water mark, many of the companies taking all kinds of risks. One evening, it is February, 1882, two young attorneys here were talking of Guiteau, for whom an application for a new trial had just been made. One of the attorneys suggested that they attempt to insure Guiteau's life, as a means of bringing ridicule on the "graveyard companies." They talked of it to a resident of Reading who at that time held a political office in Washington.

He entered into the joke and thought he could arrange the Washington end of the affair. Going back to Washington, the Berks county politician told a newspaper man there of the business of the insurance companies in Reading and also of the scheme of insuring Guiteau. Meanwhile, the attorneys made written application for $100,000 insurance on Guiteau's life. The application nearly got the jokers into trouble. Among the many life insurance concerns in Reading at the time was one that did not properly come under the designation of a deathbed company. By accident a blank of this particular company was filled out in due form and forwarded to the Washington newspaper man. His part was to get Guiteau to sign it and try to secure his signature.

The reporter visited Guiteau and told him that a firm of insurance agents in Reading, thinking that he might secure a new trial and eventually escape the gallows, considered him a good risk and wanted to insure him for $100,000. The reporter gave Guiteau to understand that neither he nor his friends would have to pay any of the assessments; that would be attended to in Reading. Guiteau was also told that the agents would make it worth his while to sign the application. Although no figures were mentioned, he was left under the impression that his heirs might expect $25,000 should he be executed. Guiteau listened to the scheme and then smiled. He knew the newspaper man, and told him he thought the entire matter a joke. The reporter knew it was, but did not say so. Guiteau declined to sign then.

The following day the Washington newspaper appeared with a long article, saying that a graveyard insurance company at Reading were about to place $100,000 insurance on Guiteau's life. The name of the company was given. The article was in the form of an exposure and said that large sums of money had been offered to secure Guiteau's signature and that a large pool was to go to the assassin's heirs. The news was sent all over the country subsequently.

By this time the Reading originators of the scheme were beginning to find that they had succeeded beyond their expectations. The officers of the company whose name was connected with the affair went on a still hunt for the schemers and lawsuits were threatened. Then the New York and New England papers took up the subject. Long articles appeared calling attention to the deathbed or graveyard insurance companies doing business in eastern Pennsylvania, and especially in Reading. Next the insurance papers of England took up the matter. They cited the Pennsylvania deathbeds as examples of American life insurance. One daily paper in San Francisco called the attempt to insure Guiteau a disgrace on humanity. It is said by those conversant with their affairs that the Guiteau episode, as much as anything else, assisted in wiping out deathbed insurance concerns.—Reading (Pa.) Letter in New York Sun.

ALL TANGLED UP.

Amusing Mixup of a Lesson on a Southern Community.

"Mad gorling, neutlegen! Dere nay!" politely saluted a pale, intellectual looking man as he passed the Kirkville tavern on the porch of which the landlord and drummer were conversing.

"Great Scott! What on earth is the matter with that man?" asked the commercial traveler in astonishment when the passerby was out of hearing. "That is the most peculiar impediment I ever heard of a man having in his speech. What is he anyhow?"

"That is Lawyer Broadhead," replied the landlord. "He was the leading attorney in the case of Hotchkiss versus Hotchkiss, which was tried last month, and in repeating the names of the plaintiff and defendant over and over he got his speech all tangled up as you noticed, and hasn't been able to get it straightened out yet."

"Ah! And what was the nature of the case?"

"Well, Hutch—I mean Hotchkiss ran a store over yonder on the corner, where just across that a building was burned down, and Hotchkiss bought him out, paying him a sum in cash for the store, fixtures, good will and accounts, just as they stood, all in a lump, and when he examined the books he found that Kash—that is, Hotchkiss had been keeping his accounts in such a novel fashion that he couldn't make head or tail of them."

SHOP AND RAIL.

A Pennsylvania Special Train Makes a Good Run.

Special Telegraphic Correspondence Between Wells and Manager of Western Affairs of the Dispatch.

The Pennsylvania's Yellowstone Park excursion passed through this city this morning, running as the second section of No. 13. It had five cars, all well filled with excursionists from New York. The train was late in reaching this city and when it pulled out of the depot it was under instructions to make up as much of the lost time as possible in their run to Chicago. It left here at 5:02 o'clock and arrived at the Chicago station at 8:12 o'clock, having made the run of 214 miles in three hours and thirteen minutes. This is regarded a good run, when the number of stops the train was compelled to make is taken into consideration. The train was hauled by engine 159, with Engineer Harry Rogers at the throttle.

RAILWAY COLISEUM INJURED.

Morris Cramer, one of the Pennsylvania's special policemen, was painfully injured by falling from train No. 32 last night, at Warsaw. Cramer got into a box car to drive out a tramp, who was stealing a ride. As he was about to climb up the side of the car again, his foot slipped in the stirrup and he fell, head downward, and was dragged for some distance. As the train swung over a bridge across the wagon road, he lost his hold and fell to the ground below, a distance of nine feet. His body was badly bruised and cut, but strange to say, no bones were broken. He was brought to the city on passenger train No. 38, and taken to his home, where Dr. George C. Stevens attended him.

SEWERS AND SIDEWALKS

Chicago Avenue Attractions of the Board of Works Under Discussion Yesterday.

The board of works, at the regular meeting held last evening, received a number of petitions for sewers and sidewalks and also a petition from Anselm Fuelber and others asking for an asphalt pavement on East Creighton avenue, from Calhoun to Lafayette street. The petition was signed by nearly every property owner on the street. The matter was not acted upon, but will come up at a future meeting. M. F. Barbour and others petitioned for a sewer in the alley between Grant avenue and Wabash avenue, from Allger street to the Wabash railway, and the engineer was ordered to prepare plans and specifications for the improvement. A delegation of Lindley street property owners appeared to ask the board to order either Broadway or Fulton street opened across the Nickel Plate railway, and also to discuss the dispute regarding the railroad company's occupation of a portion of the street. The original records provide for a street forty-five feet in width as far as the water's edge, but the curve in the Nickel Plate track interrupts the street before the river is reached.

The assessment rolls for the paving of the alley between Wayne and Washington streets, from Fulton to Broadway, and for constructing a sewer in the alley between Walton avenue and Fletcher avenue, from Allger street to Wayne trace, were approved, and the board set September 13 as the date for hearing remonstrances against final action. The clerk was instructed to order the Jenney Electric Lighting company to place a light at North Calhoun and Fourth streets.

The board received the presentation of the following resolutions: For a sewer in the alley east of Calhoun street, from the alley south of Creighton avenue to Tabor street; sewer in the alley between Wabash and Gillespie avenues, from Randall street to the alley south; also in the alley between Randall street and Maumee avenue, from Wabash avenue to Gillespie avenue; for side walks on the west side of Calhoun street, from Fifth street to Sixth street; sidewalks on the north side of Ila avenue, from Main street to its western terminus; sidewalks on the north side of Allen street, from Calhoun street to Clinton; sidewalks on the east side of Clinton street, from northerly street to Pontiac; sidewalks on the east side of Fletcher avenue from Allger street to the Wabash railroad. The board will receive competitive bids for contracts on September 16.

The next regular meeting of the board falls on Monday, but that being Labor day the meeting will be held the following day.

HAY FEVER.

It Can be Cured by Illinois' Double Treatment.

Read the Testimonials of Persons Personally Known at Fort Wayne, Catarrh, Asthma and Bronchial Complaints.

Hay Fever, or Hay Asthma as it is often called, is a combination of Bronchial and Nasal affections. The immediate cause and source of irritation, being of external origin at locking individuals during the months of May, June and August. The pollen of hay, dried grasses and rag weed comes in contact with the nasal and bronchial membranes, in wakening all the air passages, causing immediate irritation frequently disabling persons afflicted therewith. The great discomfort and suffering may in many of the less of life caused by this terrible disease, may be avoided by using Illinois' Double Treatment, which is a sure, safe and permanent cure. Commence using the medicine at once, and get your system in condition to resist the effect of those agencies upon the mucous membrane, thereby keeping the system in a healthy condition.

CATARRH.

What the Resident Manager of the Chicago Newspaper Union has to Say

The Illinois Medicine Company, Fort Wayne Ind.

GENTLEMEN:—Your Mr. A. H. Hinton persuaded me to give your Double Treatment for catarrh a trial, and after having used it about 20 days I can honestly say that the results have been very satisfactory. I have been a sufferer from the disease since childhood, and was so bad at times that the membrane would bleed constantly. By the use of your medicine I have stopped the bleeding, my head is generally relieved and I have no more difficulty with my breathing. Yours truly

CHARLES H. TILLO.

Cured of Catarrh.

The Illinois Medicine Co.:

DEAR SIRS:—I am twenty-eight years old, had Catarrh all my life. For years my appetite was bad. I could not sleep well. I was becoming deaf. The disease in my head became so bad that one could hear the air escape from my ear. To save it all up, the disease was killing me by inches. I heard of your double treatment for Catarrh and began the use of the medicine at once. After using eight bottles of your remedies, I am happy to say, that I have a good appetite, I sleep well, my deafness is cured, and I have gained sixteen and one half pounds in four months. I advise every one who has Catarrh to give your medicine a trial.

ANNA CAMPBELL,

Hemorrhage of the Lungs Cured.

Miss Anna Schlegel, who resides at 103 W. Superior St., says: "I take great pleasure in signing the following statement. All my life I have been afflicted with a bronchial cough. A year ago I had a hemorrhage of the lungs. Since that time for months I have been troubled with hemorrhages. I was advised by a friend to use your New Asthma and Cough Cure. I have taken four bottles of the remedy. I have no more soreness in my lungs and the hemorrhages have ceased. I cannot say enough in the praise of your medicine.

Signed, ANNA SCHLEGEL.

Had Asthma for Twenty Years.

The Illinois Medicine Company, Room 3 Swinney Block, Fort Wayne, Ind.

DEAR SIRS:—I had Asthma for twenty years. I treated with physicians in St. Louis and in other cities, and have used many remedies, but never received any relief what ever until I commenced the use of your New Asthma and Cough Cure. Before I had used one bottle I received great relief, and after having used four bottles I am entirely cured. I am happy to recommend your remedy to all who are suffering from Asthma. May the Lord bless you and your wonderful medicine.

(Signed) MARY HUFFORD,
Malvane, Kansas.

ASTHMA.

Testimonial From Ex-Judge of the Superior Court of Allen County.

Illinois Medicine Co., Room 3 Swinney Block City.

Having been a great sufferer from that most distressing disease, Asthma, and having used your Asthma remedy for the last few months, I can certify very cheerfully, that it has afforded me great relief, and I feel confident that in the majority of cases will accomplish a permanent cure.

Respectfully yours,
A. A. CHAVIS.

A Word From Charles Yager, Jeweler, the Electrician.

DEAR SIRS:—I have had a bad case of catarrh for 14 years. There was a constant dripping of mucous into my throat. Every morning my nose, head and throat would be filled up. After a terrible siege of trying to remove the mucous I would become so sick that it was with difficulty that I could eat my breakfast. I had no appetite. The disease developed into bronchial and dyspepsia. I read of your Double Treatment for Catarrh, and after having used your remedies for a short time, I can cheerfully say that now my appetite is good, I have no more trouble with indigestion, my throat is well, and my general health has not been as good for years.

Signed CHARLES YAGER, JR.

After his successful performance in that one awful inning at New Castle Wednesday our Mr Alloway certainly could not expect confidence in him. Yesterday Jonathan He redeemed himself in a large measure, however, at Youngstown yesterday by pitching an exhibition ball. The Youngstowns were able to bunch hits only in one inning and Alloway sent only one man to first on balls. He shut the Ohio men out until the eighth inning when luck him coupled with errors by Babb and Campbell netted four runs. The Fort Wayne played hard and carefully and won on their merits.

NOTES.

Tuesday's and Wednesday's victories appear to have greatly assuaged New Castle's grief over Monday's robbery.

Second Baseman Beck still wears a Toledo uniform. It is probable, however, that he will soon be with the Philadelphia team.

Mansfield News: "Minnehan is fearfully and wonderfully slow in the box. He's fast enough when he does the actual pitching, but it takes him an awful long time to get ready."

The printers and newsmakers are anxiously waiting for labor day. Both teams are sanguine of success and a scrappy contest between the old time rivals can be looked for. McWhorter will be on the slab for the "printers," while Jim Indau will officiate in the pitcher's department for the "scraps." The game will be called at 1 p. m.

The Blacks call attention to the following notice: The Blacks would like to accept the challenge of the Ideas for a game of ball Thursday, at the Ideas grounds, as we do not play on Thursdays.
